Franklin County Area Agency on Aging Hosts “Centers Without Walls” Event

May 28, 2019 -- Chambersburg, PA -- The Franklin County Area Agency on Aging recently hosted a “Center Without Walls” event at the Carrack United Methodist Church in Fort Loudon.

The Center Without Walls (CWOW) event encourages seniors to come to locations outside of existing senior centers and enjoy live music while also learning about what activities Franklin County’s senior centers have to offer.

Franklin County Senior Activity Centers offer local seniors opportunities for socializing, learning and having fun. “We are happy to provide places that focus on the wellbeing of our seniors,” said Commissioner Chairman Dave Keller.

Fort Loudon Center manager Tonya Zeigler presented to the 39 seniors in attendance, 15 of which had not participated in a senior center activity before. Tonya informed the audience about various activities and resources Franklin County’s eight senior centers have to offer including: art classes, line dancing, trips on chartered coach buses, a free fitness center, health education, free wifi, and daily lunches. Informational service booklets and copies of the Golden Gazette newspaper were distributed to attendees.
